

With the Phasmid Study Group, you have access to literally hundreds of species of stick insects, many of which you cannot find in shops or on-line retailers!

In the Phasmid Study Group you can:

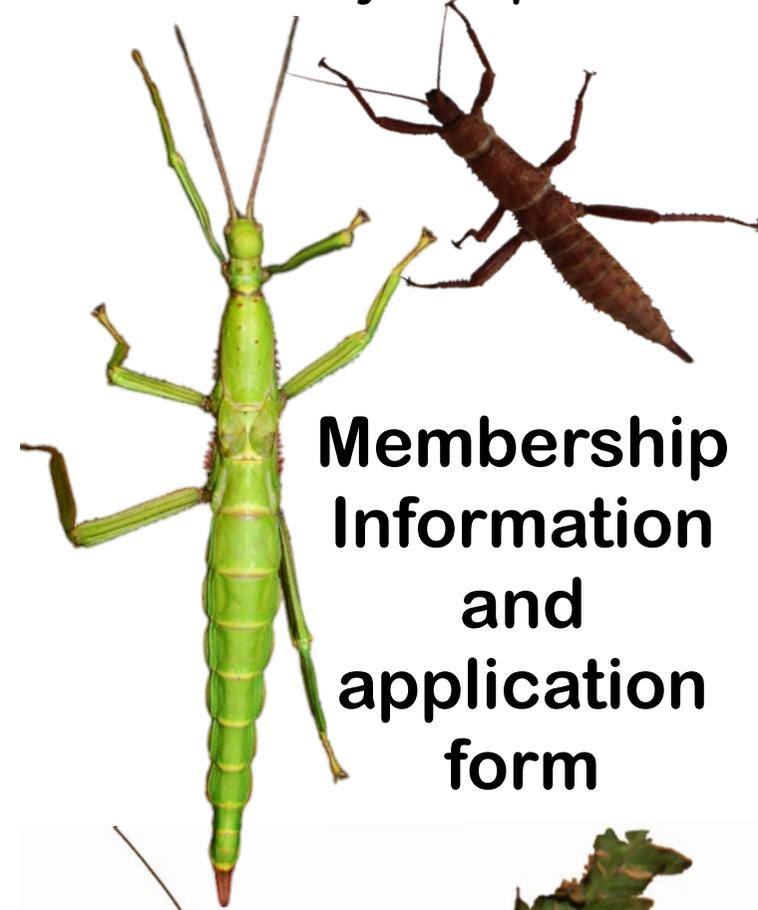

Meet & chat to experts/professional entomologists and seek advice or ask general questions.

Meet people who have discovered & described new species, and who are published authors on the subject!

Find a support network of people who share the same interest, and with whom to discuss ideas & tips on breeding & care.

Friendly, Knowledgeable Members

Founded early in 1980, The Phasmid Study Group has over 100 members in several countries, including people of all ages and ranging from beginner to professional entomologists.

The purpose of the group is to encourage studies of all aspects of phasmids, (stick and leaf insects).

Since phasmids have received little attention until recently, there is scope for anyone to provide further information.

What can I expect?

Newsletters:

Containing news items, livestock information, exhibition and meeting details, and a variety of articles and species reports, issued up to four times a year.

Phasmid Studies

Contains longer, more technical and advanced articles on all aspects of phasmids: an on-line, occasional publication.

Livestock Distribution

Many species are kept by members and new ones are always being added. Many of the group's species are not commercially available. We have a livestock co-ordinator who distributes surplus stock to members.

MEMBERS MUST NOT SELL ANY LIVESTOCK THEY OBTAIN FROM THE GROUP.

Meetings

Held twice a year at the Natural History Museum, London. Members meet here, swap livestock, share tips and advice.

New Members

You will receive all newsletters for the year of joining. Membership information is stored on a computer and subject to the Data Protection Act.

Membership Application Form

A year's subscription is: £12 (UK); £14 (Europe) and £15 (overseas).
